■ Ava's Story: The Paint-Splotch Portrait

Ava sat at the kitchen table, her paintbrush dripping pink and gold. Today's homeschool art lesson was "Paint Your Self-Portrait!"

She tried her best to draw her face — the curly hair, her big smile, and that one freckle near her nose. But halfway through, her brush slipped.

Splash! A pink blob splattered across the paper.

"Oh no," she sighed. "Now it's ruined."

Mom peeked over her shoulder and smiled. "Sweetheart, even your messes are beautiful. God made you wonderfully — every freckle, every curl, even the tiny things that make you you."

Ava giggled. "Even my paint-splotch?"

"Especially that," Mom said. "Because it's yours."

So Ava added more colors, turning the blob into a bright flower. When she finished, she whispered, "Wow, God, You really made me special."

■ Lesson Line

You are God's one-of-a-kind masterpiece. There's no mistake in how He made you.

■ Activity Idea

Draw a picture of yourself and write around it: "God made me special because..."

■ Let's Talk to God

Dear God,

Thank You for making me wonderfully and with so much love.

Help me see myself the way You see me —
special, chosen, and full of Your beauty.

Amen. ■

■ From Anita — For Parents & Mentors This first Ava devotional introduces children to the beauty of God’s craftsmanship in them. Each story helps kids see themselves through heaven’s lens — with awe, not comparison.

Ava’s adventures were written to slow hearts down, spark conversation, and make faith feel simple again — especially for families who teach, nurture, and love from home.

“Raising faith-filled girls is how we raise the future.”

— Anita T. Kumeh

A young girl with her hair pulled back, smiling gently. She is wearing a two-toned dress: a gold bodice with short, puffed sleeves and a matching gold panel at the bottom of the skirt. The middle section of the skirt is a deep purple with a gold paisley pattern. Her hands are clasped in front of her.
